

June 2017
Gone!

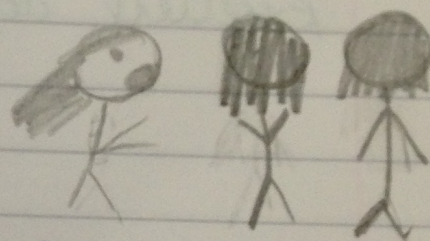

The wind howled like a hungry dog. Her heart thundered. Her hands shook. She could feel the ground opening up to swallow her, and then... She was gone!

Invisible!

an

Millie had 'eerie feeling that morning. The wind howled around the house like an angry dog, as she set off for school. She called out to her friends, but they didn't seem to notice her, even when she walked along side them. Every one was heading up Racecourse Hill. She followed and found they were heading to a coffin with her name on the side.

Her surroundings faded away. Then her hand began to shake. She could feel the ground sinking, to opening up and swallow.

Well done. Invisible!